

As a result of Intec's Apprentices of the Year 2019 nominations Daniel Cox has been awarded an Apprentice Rising Star.

Daniel left University as it was not for him and took on an Apprenticeship with Simply Commerce a specialist recruitment consultancy in the digital technology field.

Daniel is doing an Apprenticeship in Recruitment Resourcing at L2. Daniel always completes his work to a very high standard and his confidence has grown dramatically, as a result he is meeting targets and winning prizes.

Daniel feels he has developed a number of skills since starting his Apprenticeship. "I have developed my communication skills in a professional environment and built a trusting relationship with my candidates. I have gained knowledge of the market and specialise in placing software testers in to suitable roles"

"I appreciate the importance of giving candidates constructive feedback and to manage the expectations of candidates and my clients alike"

Dan's manager James Hodges comments that "Dan has a great work ethic and has exceeded our expectations to the extent that we want to bring on more Apprentices.

When Dan started with Simply Commerce he was quite shy, his confidence has grown to the point where he has won our Employee of the Month on several occasions. He has become a valued and great member of the team.
